GIVING THANKS AND GIVING BACK

There are many people around us who help us every day. When someone does something for you, how do you respond? Do you say "Thank you," or do you forget about it? Being thankful and saying "Thank you" helps you stay positive in your daily life. If you forget to be thankful, your life becomes self-centered and small. Giving back is also important. It strengthens your relationships and helps you find a purpose. When you have the chance, give thanks and give it back!

WHAT'S IN THE NEWS

Japan has battled the Coronavirus for almost four months. Schools were closed, businesses were shut down, and many people became sick and even passed away. It has been a hard year. However, the country is slowly returning to a normal life. Most schools are open again, the baseball season has started, and people are looking forward to many more things to return. However, we must remain careful. Please continue to wear your mask. Wash your hands. Do social distancing when you can. Let's stay healthy and completely defeat this terrible disease.

CINEMA CORNER

"The Breakfast Club" is a movie that came out in 1985. It is a comedy-drama about a group of teenagers who had to come to school on Saturday for detention. There is a jock, a geek, a snob, a punk, and a kook. They are all very different. They argue and fight at first, but they slowly learn about each other. The experience changes their lives and the way they look at people. The movie is one of the most famous American movies about teenagers.
